Hello,

I am writing in my personal capacity and I am a voting Guilderland resident. I am opposed to granting Costco any tax exemptions and any eminent domain. They are a multi-billion dollar business. They do not need a 2 million dollar tax break OR to take over our roads. Those are OUR roads.

If I wanted to build a house in Guilderland, does the town intend on granting me a tax break and allowing me to take over publicly owned roads? I assume not, even though my building of a house would economically benefit the town of Guilderland.

I am therefore opposed to the requested tax breaks by Costco and the eminent domain request. You should not be taking public land to give it to a private owner. I imagine this will be challenged in court if you proceed.

We are watching the towns actions and will vote accordingly if you just give Costco everything they want!

Sincerely,
