While I have no objection to Costco or other commercial entities locating in Guilderland I strongly disagree that further development within the Pine Bush is "smart growth." The Pine Bush is a unique natural asset that is of immeasurable benefit to the town and its residents. It would be irresponsible and illogical to chip away another piece of it. Given that it seems inevitable that Crossgates Mall is likely to lose at least one, if not two, of its major tenants (JC Penney and Macy's) wouldn't it be foolish approve further destruction of a natural gem when existing, large commercial space is likely to be sitting empty just down the road before the end of the year! Since the conception of the Costco project the economic outlook for Guilderland is very different so please put the brakes on this proposal and urge Costco to consider alternate locations that would be optimal for Guilderland, not to mention better for the environment. Thank you.
